21/01/2010

When it comes to decorating a home, if like me, the 'fast decorating' side of IKEA leaves shivers running down your spine, here is the the heads up for a great new interiors company.

Nuttall, an exciting new brand run by sisters Gytha and Amber is opening their first showroom in London's Chelsea Green, customers will be able to come – by appointment – to sink into the down-filled sofas and feel the soft cashmere of the Loro Piana fabrics whose full interior range they stock.

Nuttall will initially offer furniture (sofas, armchairs, footstools) and accessories (cushion, throws) that are inspired by the best of European craftsmanship with a strong English aesthetic but their goal is to develop Nuttall into a complete lifestyle brand, offering everything you might need for a home – from candles and paint, to beds and linen under one roof.

Nuttall launches in February 2010,
